

COMMUNICATING OBJECTS BETWEEN USERS

Abstract of the Disclosure

Communications between users may be facilitated using a single window and a communications interface associated with that window. Transfers may be made by grabbing
5 objects within the window and moving them to the communications interface. Icons may be associated with particular users and when objects are dragged-and-dropped to those icons, those objects may be automatically transferred to interfaces associated with those users.